Carolyn Hanes is an experienced family lawyer and collaborative practitioner, working in the field of family law since 1999. Carolyn qualified as a solicitor in 2004.

She is a member of Resolution and is a Resolution accredited specialist in children issues and finances.

Carolyn's extensive training and practice as a mediator has led to full accreditation with the Law Society as well as accreditation for civil and commercial mediation with ADRg. She holds FMCA status, as an accredited family mediator with the Family Mediation Council.

Carolyn is a Resolution trained PPC (Professional Practice Consultant), assisting and supporting mediators in the development of their own practice, helping them identify and develop their own mediation signature.

Carolyn is mindful that the justice system is not a 'one size fits all' and identifies the drivers of dispute. She always works to translate conflict into opportunity. Carolyn recognises that resolution is not always captured in legal framing and never loses sight of the families behind the dispute.

She is able to create the 'clearing in the forest' needed to reach durable and satisfactory outcomes, humanely and with precision.
